A cemetery or graveyard is a place where the remains of dead people are buried or otherwise interred. The word cemetery (from Greek κοιμητήριον, kōimētērion, "sleeping place") implies that the land is specifically designated as a burial ground and originally applied to the Roman catacombs. The term graveyard is often used interchangeably with cemetery, but a graveyard primarily refers to a ...

Willard and many other former New York State Hospitals still have patient medical records and photographs dating back to 1869. New HIPAA Legislation allows for the release of these historical medical records, and names, fifty years after the patient's death but the State of New York and the Office of Mental Health chooses to totally disregard federal law.

A mass grave is a grave containing multiple human corpses, which may or may not be identified prior to burial. The United Nations has defined a criminal mass grave as a burial site containing three or more victims of execution. Mass graves are usually created after a large number of people die or are killed, and there is a desire to bury the corpses quickly for sanitation concerns.
